ANOTHER BIG LOT OF

White Milan Sailor Hats

BETTER THAN EVER!

$3.95

If you see these hats at country club, exclusive resorts or on parade at fashionable thoroughfares, you'll think of an expensive, branded make at once.

Well, YOU WILL SEE THEM THERE, for any woman who is at all practical (and all women are, more or less) will certainly buy them at $3.95 rather than pay exorbitant prices charged for simply a name.

Fresh from the hands of the finishers, with the very last-minute touches in evidence. Crowns in octagonal form, regulation round crowns, some that are pinched in like a crush. Roll brims, cushion brims, straight brims, and whatever is new in Sailor Hats are shown in this new lot.

Gross grain ribbon bands, straight, twisted or drapes, such as you see in the imported or branded hats.

Don't forget that they are only $3.95, and although it is a big lot, remember that this is pre-eminently a season of White Hats, a season of Sailor Hats and particularly a season of Milans.

First Floor—Lansburgh & Brother.

CLOSE OUT SALE OF HIGH-GRADE CORSETS

Discontinued models—although they are styles that you will wear with comfort and satisfaction. There are famous brands in this lot, but because the manufacturers make slight changes from season to season, these are offered at a price far below their worth.

Madam Pfeil, La Grecque, Nemo and R. & G. Lightweight Coutil in medium and low bust; long hip. Firm hose supporters; sizes 20 to 36 in the lot, but not in each make.

Second Floor—Lansburgh & Brother.

Men Walk Backwards After They Drink Jungle Brew

CHICAGO, June 14.—American home brewers, laboring with hops and malt in dusky cellars or behind drawn blinds, are the veriest amateurs when compared to the jungle natives of South Africa, according to the Rev. William C. Terrill, Methodist Episcopal missionary, of Johannesburg, British South Africa, who is visiting Methodist headquarters here.

So skillful are the bush savages, the Rev. Mr. Terrill says, that they can make alcoholic drinks from practically anything that grows in the jungle. Oranges, limes, sweet potatoes, pineapples, corn, cassava root and all kinds of native fruits are turned into strong drinks.

The compounds of the kitchen distiller are mild alongside some of the South African beverages. The Rev. Mr. Terrill described a drink which reverses the motor nerves, giving tipplers an irresistible desire to walk backward, with a carnival of ludicrous antics. The liquor comes from the fruit of the cashew tree. The abundant juice ferments in the sun within a few hours, and the longer it stands the stronger it becomes. When fermentation has gone far enough the natives distill the product and obtain a liquor with a very high alcoholic content, as well as a big percentage of ammonia.

Percy Pollock a Bright Star

Sam Harris Makes Mistake in Billing Mary Ryan as Principal Performer in "The Turn in the Road," Opening at National.

By LOUIS ASHLEY.

Sam H. Harris presented "The Turn in the Road," with Mary Ryan, at the National last night. It is a new comedy by A. E. Thomas, suggested by a short story by Walter Pritchard Eaton, and is staged by Sam Forrest.

THE CAST.

Mrs. Stanley . . . . . Mary Ryan
Mrs. Newcomb . . . . . Blanche Friedland
Mrs. Peters . . . . . Kate Mahow
Mr. Sambo . . . . . Percy Pollock
Robert Stanley . . . . . Neil Martin
Lois Stanley . . . . . Ruth Mero
Mary Hadley . . . . . Margaret MacFarland
Syd Johnson . . . . . Leon Cunningham
Professor Giddings . . . . . Harry C. Browne
College Boys—Carrington Short, William Leonard, Horace Miller, and Herbert Jenkins.

Proposed as a starring vehicle for Mary Ryan, this newest play is really an opportunity for as perfect a bit of character delineation by Percy Pollock as one might wish. Excellence is ever its own reason for being, hence the presence of Mr. Sambo in "The Turn in the Road" may explain why this play is. Indeed, there is no other reason.

Mrs. Stanley, the widow of Rev. Eben Stanley, a flinty New England Methodist minister, is facing the world with two children and an income of $90 a year. The Rev. Eben would probably have said "per annum." Married at eighteen to a man of forty, she had never really lived.

Cooled up in a Methodist parsonage, forced to regulate her comings and her goings by the possibility of arousing small town gossip, she is the weak-spirited victim of her surroundings and her tyrannous children. The latter, raised in the same atmosphere, may be pardoned for their narrowness.

Into this picture of pettiness and sorrow and grieving memories steps Mr. Sambo, Mrs. Stanley's father. He comes with all the spice of his own newmown hay. He at one sets out the story of his life, misadventure, and his wife, who was largely interested in her soul and blissfully content when her daughter married a minister old enough to be her father. "Suppose she's in heaven now," mused old Sambo. "Well, s'pose I'm headed straight for hell's fire. Oh hum!" And he winks.

"Always did like terbaccer," he continues, "an' cider—specially when it's just a wee bit hard. Your mother never could excuse that."

Tied to a bleak New England farm, Sambo has always wanted to travel and see things. He wanted to see Lillian Russell, Niagara Falls, Palm Beach, San Francisco, William Jennings Bryan, New York and Billy Sunday. So he goes to New York and has the time of his life, mistaking Lillian Russell because "she's married now—n' keepin' house."

Without Sambo, Nellie Stanley would never have come out of her surroundings as a daffodil from the bar around to greet the circus. Prof. Giddings, of Sinclair College, without Sambo, "The Turn in the Road" would be a bloodless thing, limping long to oblivion from birth. It may at last long as it is, but if it does Sambo will be responsible, not Nellie Stanley.

Percy Pollock's work from first to last cannot be improved. He has the wit and the mannerisms of the unke farmer to the last iota. He provides the only matured humor in the play. He is the mainstay for the action, once he appears. Nellie Stanley, rescued from the shades of the departed, and almost sainted, Rev. Eben, is in turn rescued from the blighting effects as seen in her "dear offspring" by Prof. Giddings. All ends happily and prettily, too.

But the one outstanding figure in this play is Percy Pollock's Mr. Sambo. Sugar should never be added to better puddings before boiling or baking, as it makes them heavy.

Glen Echo Park.

Old man Care is having strenuous times these days trying to get in his heavy work with that big percentage of Washington folks who have learned that a visit to Glen Echo Park not only provides a pleasant outing but also provides the easiest escape from the sweltering heat that finally arrived in the District.

This was especially true on Sunday for Minister's Band played to capacity crowds both in the afternoon and evening for the attendance figures ran far up into the thousands. After being closed as usual over Sunday the ball room was again the center of attraction last night, the dancers being out in full force. The floor was filled almost from the first and the band's jazz jesters went the limit in jaxing in response to repeated demands for encores.

Steamer St. Johns.

A capacity crowd was carried by the steamer St. Johns on its forty-mile moonlight trip down the Potomac last night, the warm weather providing a strong motive for enjoyment. Dancing, for which excellent music was furnished by Sokolov's Orchestra, was one of the incidental attractions. The St. Johns will make the same trip tonight and will depart up to and including Friday, leaving the Seventh street wharf at 7:15.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA AND NEARBY VIRGINIA

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 14.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Clara Virginia Quale and Clarence E. Campbell, of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Jackson at the parsonage of the First Baptist Church last Saturday.

E. B. Walker, circulation manager of the Alexandria Gazette, who was injured in an automobile accident at Gettysburg, Pa., last Sunday, has returned to this city. Mr. Walker is suffering from a sprained wrist.

In the corporation court, Judge Robinson Monroe presiding, true bills were returned by the grand jury yesterday in the following cases: Thomas Baggett and Antonio Lemeshewsky, alleged violators of the State prohibition law; Joseph Jenkins, alleged malicious shooting.

City Health Officer L. E. Foulke has issued a typhoid warning to men and boys who bathe in the river off this city. He cites the fact that all the sewerage of Washington and Alexandria empty into the Potomac.

A lawn party, which was given yesterday by the ladies of St. Rita's Church on the lawn adjoining that church at Mt. Ida, Arlington county, will be repeated this evening.

A meeting of Alexandria Lodge No. 758, B. O. E. Ks., was held at the home on Prince street last evening.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the American Legion held a meeting at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce last evening. The committee having in charge the recent "poppy day" made their report.

At the meeting of Marley Encompiant, O. O. F., held last evening the second degree was conferred on a large class of candidates.

HITS MANNISH VOICE OF WOMEN IN POLITICS

CHICAGO, June 14.—It is not necessary for women in public life to assume masculine voices, Miss Degmar Perkins, president of the National Association for the Improvement of American Speech, said yesterday. Miss Perkins is in Chicago studying peculiarities of language used in the Middle West.

"Educated people, especially some women in politics, seem to think slovenly, slurred speech is smart and original. Women in public life do not appear to realize that it is not necessary for them to assume masculine voices."

Miss Perkins, who is a graduate of Bryn Mawr and a native New Yorker, said she believed great good would be accomplished through her organization. She said she found people of the lower walks more willing to change their speech than the educated and socially prominent.

AUTOIST FINDS SAFETY ON LOCOMOTIVE PILOT

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 14.—Driving his automobile in front of a passenger train on a grade crossing here, Charles Moran, forty years old, a mining engineer, escaped death by a miracle when the machine was struck and dragged a distance of 100 yards. When the train was brought to a stop Moran was found perched on the pilot. His only injuries were a few cuts and bruises about the body and face. The car was totally wrecked.

BURGLAR GETS $20,000 AT VINCENT ASTOR HOME

NEW YORK, June 14.—The Fifth avenue home of Vincent Astor was entered June 4, in the afternoon, by a burglar who made away with loot which was valued at between $10,000 and $20,000, it became known today.

Jewelry and trinkets belonging to Mr. Astor, Mrs. Astor, and R. Peters, said to be a cousin of Mr. Astor, were taken by the thief, who entered the house by the servants' entrance.

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION WINS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

BOSTON, Mass., June 14.—Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion of the world, whose right name is John F. Panica, Saturday won a divorce from his wife, Elsie Panica, Judge Flynn granting the decree after brief hearing. The case was uncontested.

Wilson named a Henry Hennessey, of New York, alleging he discovered the pair in an apartment in New York early this year. The Wilsons were married in New York in 1915.

BULLETS MARK DEBATE IN TURKISH ASSEMBLY

LONDON, June 14.—Revolver shots were exchanged in a heated debate in the Turkish nationalist assembly at Angora, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Constantinople today. Mustafa Kemal Pasha, head of the Turkish nationalist cabinet, threatened to resign.

B. F. KEITH'S—

Vaudeville.

The bill at B. F. Keith's Theater this week can be termed only fair. Probably it was the intense heat of yesterday, but the performers on the program went through their turns with very little life.

Henry Santrey is the headliner, assisted by his synopsized band of ten pieces. He gave a long program of songs accompanied by his orchestra that was well received. Al Lydell and Carleton Macey put in a reappearance in their favorite vehicle, "Old Cronies," which gave them many opportunities for eccentric comedy as two civil war veterans.

Joe Rome and Lou Gaut, the short and long comedians, were one of the hits of the show with their comedy and acrobatic dancing, while Emma Haig assisted by Richard W. Keene, contributed a dancing turn. La Bilbianta danced several Spanish dances with much grace, but there was so much sameness about them that the specialty lost much of its entertaining qualities. Florenz Ames and Adelaide Winthrop presented a burlesque on marriage, the knighthood system of old and types of the early 80's in their sketch, "Alice in Wonderland." McFarland and Palace showed much harmony in the singing of popular songs and Jack Hanley opened the show with his funny sticks.

"HOT DOG" BARKING AT CONEY ENDED BY STRIKE

NEW YORK, June 14.—Coney Island today faced labor troubles that may cause the thousands that flock to the great playground to go hungry during their visit.

The cry of many vendors of the delicacy known as "hot dog" may not rebound along the boardwalk for members of the sausage stuffer union have decided that they will stuff sausage eight hours a day and no longer, while the employers insist they should work ten at reduced wages. Conference has failed to bring about an agreement. The supply of hot dogs was said to be sufficient for only one day's consumption.
